After working there for several years in the 1950's he moved back North purchased a farm of 80 acres he worked with his wife and three sons for many years as a dairy farmer until about 2000, handling beef and still doing so. The farm was a half mile North of where he grew up. He had always wanted to farm and had a passion for it; the farm grew to be larger than 250 acres. He enjoyed being his own boss and worked long hours to provide for his family and succeeded. His handshake was his word.

He was a member of the Wexford County Farm Bureau and had traveled to Washington D.C. in 1984 to speak with the members of Congress with the group. He was also a member of the Wexford Township Board of Review for many years until 2012.
