“ She is survived by her children: Deborah Slovinski, Margaret Lowe, Daniel Fighter; grandchildren: Shennon Fighter, Sierra Fighter, Sequoya Fighter; great-grandchildren: Maverick and Freya; siblings: Richard Walker, Jim (Caroline) Walker and Pat Hazecamp.

She is also survived by her eldest grandchild, Faith Parker.

Betty was a kind soul. When I was small, she was my favorite person. When we reconnected in my adult years, she welcomed me with open arms, and wanted to rekindle that relationship. Unfortunately, time was not on our side. Until we meet again grandma.

Yes, she is. She was my best friend all those years ago. I was so glad I was able to visit. Just to see those tears of joy touched my heart. She was such a bright light with great darkness around. She was a safe place. She was grandma.

“ My mother only had two children, Margaret and myself. Deb is her half sister. They both shared the same mother, suvilla. Mom had a very difficult life before she married my dad, Roscoe Fighter. She took care of the house while he was the breadwinner. In her last years she was misused via legal actions by family wanting her money yet she always cared that I was OK. I stayed close to care for her after dad passed, as sister and daughter only saw money. This made mother very sad but she kept slugging through. Pray for mom. Ask that she seeks out my dad as only he ever brought her peace

“ My Grandma Fighter was a strong great women. She was such a sweet & loving soul. She always made sure everyone was well taken cared of. Always made sure all of us kids had food in our tummys. She would take us to McDonald's every Tuesday, there was one time she even took our dog Cindy and let the dog have the whole front seat while we all had to sit in the back 😂. My grandma was such a great piano player as well. I always loved it when we got to hear it. And she let us kids play on it as well. I also will never forget how many turtles me & my sisters caught on her lake. We always had a good time at my grandma's. And we always made sure she had her coffee, because it made her happy. I love you Grandma, tell grandpa hi & he is missed for me.
-Love you're Granddaughter Sierra
