“ Dad, I suppose we both thought there would always be time to catch up, until I was surprised to hear you had passed out of this world. If anyone is likely to know how such things can sneak up on you its those of us in nursing. It will take a long time for me to come to terms with the decades of memories and all the things I didn't share with you, or tell you about my life, my son Corwyn and daughter Keira... and all the things I would have liked to hear you talk about. I will miss you dad.
